PAROLE FOR JOHN RIPPLE

Man who Turned State's Evidence is Given a Chance to Make Good. Inherits Small Fortune while in Jail.

John Ripple, who turned state's evidence in the chicken stealing case tried last week in Adams Co. Court was placed on probation Saturday afternoon by Judge Swope for a period of two years, the man to give an account of himself monthly. Today he left for Waynesboro to join his wife who is living there.

Ripple had been confined to the County Jail since June 10 when he was apprehended for complicity in the chicken raids. During his five months' stay with Sheriff Fissel he underwent a change of heart, repented of his past misdeeds and when his case came up for trial confessed to his part and implicated Snyder. It was his testimony largely that resulted in the conviction of the latter man.

While Ripple was in jail his mother died and he fell heir to an estate valued at $20,000. This amount is held in trust for him and he receives the interest quarterly. The Court has now given the man every opportunity to make good and with his evident sincerity to turn about and lead an honorable life it is probable that he has seen his last of the interior of a prison.

OIL MADE SPRING OBNOXIOUS

Some weeks ago a pipe carrying oil of the Pure Oil Co. across the mountain broke in Hollow Spring, close to Glen Furney, and the spring and its banks were covered with the thick and disagreeable crude oil.

The people of the vicinity could not use the water and had to carry all they needed from the spring on the S. H. Brown farm. This became burdensome in a short time and they requested the oil company to do something to relieve the inconvenience.

Big chunks of the thick oil yet cling to the banks and the water is not by any means rid of the oily taste. Representatives of the oil company visited the place, and decided to run a pipe from a point above the broken pipe to a point a quarter of a mile distant. This pipe will supply all the people along its route with water and will be used until all traces of oil have left the stream.

It is said springs in the Glen Furney region are lower than for many years and that some have gone dry which have always heretofore held some water.

MISS MARTHA MCILHENNY

Miss Martha A. McIlheny died Saturday evening at the home of her niece, Mrs. W. W. Boyer in Arendtsville, after an illness of two weeks aged 79 years, 4 months and 5 days.

She was the last survivor of the John McIlheny family, her three brothers, Samuel, John Kerr, R. King and sister, Mrs. Cornelius Lott, having died some years ago.

She has been a consistent member of the Great Conewago Presbyterian church for more than sixty years. Funeral Tuesday, Nov. 22nd. Services at the house at 10 a. m., conducted by Rev. D. T. Koser, after which the body will be taken to the Presbyterian church at Hunterstown, where Rev. D. W. Woods will conduct services at the close of which interment will be made in the Presbyterian cemetery at that place.

MRS. HARRY WALTER

Mrs. Harry Walter died at four o'clock this morning at her home in Fairfield aged 87 years, 2 months and 4 days.

Her husband and two children, Donald and Charlotte, survive with the following brothers and sisters, John and William Donaldson and Miss Margaret Donaldson, of Hamilton township; Mrs. George Minter, of Arendtsville, and Mrs. Walter McCreary, of Fairfield.

Funeral at ten o'clock Wednesday morning from her late home.

ONE MORE GAME

Only one more game remains for the Gettysburg College foot ball team for this season. That is with Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster on Thursday. If this game is captured the season will be considered a success all three of the Gettysburg rivals being humbled. Last year Gettysburg lost all three of the contests.

JUST received at Wolf's warehouse, one car cotton seed meal and one car Sucrose Dairy Feed. For prices call the market list on another page.

THE following stores will be closed on Thanksgiving Day, S. G. Bigham, Thomas Brothers, and G. H. Knouse, Biglerville; M. E. Knouse, Brysonia, Seasely and Rouzer, Biglerville.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

Twenty Second Anniversary of Founding of St. James Christian Endeavor Society Celebrated Sunday Evening.

St. James church was filled almost to capacity on Sunday evening when the twenty second anniversary of the founding of the Christian Endeavor Society in that church was celebrated.

A song service, led by Mr. William Logan, preceded the anniversary service. Mr. C. McClain Davis read the Scripture lesson, Rev. J. B. Baker offered prayer and Mrs. Zinn, sang a solo.

George Hartman, president of the Junior Society made the report of the work done by that branch of the organization during the past year. The society now has an active membership of 175, an honorary membership of 21 and an associate membership of 10. During the past year it has contributed $85 to the cause of missions. Mr. Hartman also told of the work done by the various committees.

Miss Maud Miller, superintendent of the Junior Society reported 126 active members in that branch and $25 contributed annually to the support of an African boy. Short illustrated lectures are given at the meetings of that society and a great deal of interest is shown by the children. A song by the members followed Miss Miller's report.

The address of the evening was made by Rev. Dr. G. W. Enders, of York, a former pastor of St. James. Rev. Dr. Enders spoke of the fact that he had been elected pastor 37 years ago and when he asked those in the audience who had been members of the church or Sunday School at that time to raise their hands six responded. Dr. Enders held the close attention of his audience throughout his address and congratulated the congregation on their successful start towards the erection of a new church.

COUNTY CROPS BOUNTIFUL

The approach of winter has caused the farmers in Adams County to hasten their fall work by completing the husking of their corn, threshing of other grain and the packing of apples and pears. As far as can be learned through conversation with farmers and fruit growers in this section, the crops during the past season have been bountiful, despite the drought during the latter part of the summer.

Almost every crop was a success and in wheat, oats, rye, hay and vegetables many records were broken for quantity and quality.

There is every indication that the yield of corn, which some persons predicted would be light, will be somewhat above the average. Not all of it has been husked but many farmers report big returns from small acreage.

Stock and poultry also, are giving raisers a good rate on their investments. Chickens and turkeys are found to be quite plentiful.

CIVILIZATION IN HANOVER

Raymond, the 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whisler, of Hanover, had his left collar bone broken in two places on the grounds of the Walnut street school building. While a number of boys were "initiating" the lad, who had been transferred from the A. W. Eichelberger building, it is said, he was thrown down by a large boy, when another boy jumped on him, with the above result. Dr. M. M. Fleagle reduced the fractures.

PROMISE GOOD SHOW

The chart for "The Gibson Family Reunion" opens at Walter's Theatre at eight o'clock Tuesday morning. The people taking part in the cast and choruses are getting along rapidly and the show promises to be one of the best home talent affairs which Gettysburg has seen for a long time. One hundred and thirty young Gettysburgians are training for the affair to be given on Thursday evening.

TWO HUNDRED TEACHERS

Next week Gettysburg will have as its guests more than two hundred Adams County teachers. There are 210 in the county and very few of them will not be here for the week's sessions. The instructors secured are all well known educators and the evening entertainments promise to draw well.

PULLMAN TAKEN OFF

The Philadelphia and Reading has taken off the Pullman which has been attached to the 5.55 and 9.55 trains. This will be for the winter months only, the patronage not justifying the service.

JUST received at Spangler's warehouse a car of good and sound new yellow ear corn, which is selling at 55 cents per bushel.

PREPARE TO HELP SCHOOLS

Parent-Teachers' Association Gets Ready for Active Work. Committees Appointed. Constitution and By-Laws Adopted.

The Parent-Teachers' Association for the advancement of the schools and scholars in Gettysburg has adopted a constitution and by-laws and is now ready for active work. Looking towards the carrying out of the plans of the association its president, Mrs. L. Dow Ott, has appointed the following committees:

Visiting Committee: Mrs. Robert C. Miller, Mrs. H. T. Weaver, Mrs. W. A. Bream, Mrs. J. D. Lippy, Mrs. E. M. Bender, Mrs. Wm. Arch McLean, Mrs. F. R. Schriver, Mrs. D. P. McPherson.

Program Committee for December: Mrs. J. I. Mumper, Mrs. J. Harry Holtzworth, Miss Anna M. Hake.

Program Committee for January: Miss Ruth Hamilton, Mrs. W. F. Gilliland, Mrs. E. J. Pfeffer.

At Friday evening's meeting a piano duet by Ethel Culp and Margaret Williams and exercises by the children of the first and second grades preceded the business session. Prof. Burgoon spoke of the principal aim of the association being to bring the home and the school into closer relation.

The next meeting of the association will be held on Friday evening December 9.

VERDICT OF $13,500

Frank L. Benning, one of the men injured in the collapse of the bridge over the Potomac at Williamsport was in Hagerstown, awarded $13,500 by a jury for the injuries he sustained at that time.

He sued the Pennsylvania Steel Company by whom he was employed on the bridge. The testimony showed that Benning was frightfully injured by the accident and aside from the intense suffering he endured for months, he is permanently injured. The one side of his face and jaw were crushed and six of the fourteen bones of his face were broken and crushed.

The sight of the eye is failing and he has no sense of smell on one side. He was also scalded and otherwise injured about the shoulder and leg.

A SONG FOR TWO

This time it is to be a duet—the words and music complete—that will go with each and every copy of next Sunday's New York World by all odds the greatest Magazine-News paper published in the United States.

This song, well known and highly lauded as the "Pastoral Duet" from "Madame Trousbadour" now playing at the Lyric theatre, New York City, will prove well worthy of a place in your music collection.

But, as good as it is, this song is but one of many reasons why you should order next Sunday's New York World from your newsdealer in advance.

UNION SERVICES

A union Thanksgiving service will be held in the Biglerville Lutheran church Thursday morning at ten o'clock. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. C. F. Flota.

POOR SHOWING OF FOOT BALL TEAM

Gettysburg's First Team Puts up Weak Game against Carlisle Indian Scrubs. Stock Falls for Franklin and Marshall Game.

The Indian scrub eleven played the Gettysburg scrub team on Nixon Field Saturday. By special permission, the Gettysburg 'varsity' was sent in for the first half of the game. Under ideal field and weather conditions, and the men in apparently good form, Gettysburg was able to score only two touchdowns against the Indians. Score Gettysburg 12, Indians 9.

For some reason, the varsity played a listless, loose, slow game. There was little or no interference on their part. The tackling was poor, and altogether the game was a failure. This does not look good for the coming game with F. and M. There seems to be no question at all that the Gettysburg men will have to wake up and work if they are to sustain their present reputation to the end of the season.

In the third and fourth quarters the Gettysburg scrubs were put in, and they held the Indians almost as well as the varsity. The redmen did not score, though time was called with the ball in their possession on Gettysburg's two yard line.

ON STATE LANDS

The extent to which the State's forestry reserves are used by hunting and camping parties is shown by the fact that over 600 permits for parties to occupy State land have been issued so far this year. These permits include 3,550 persons, many of them hunters.

The increase of visitors to State lands for the purposes of recreation has been notable and some of the properties which the State has acquired to safeguard watersheds and timber supplies have proved to be popular camping grounds. All parties are under the supervision of the State Forestry Department and Commissioner Robert S. Conklin says that through the operation of the "new forest fire wardens" law fires have been very much decreased both in number and destructiveness.

Some of the State reserves are well filled with game of all kinds and are adjacent to the State game preserves, which are under control of the State Game Commission and closed at all periods of the year. It is the hope of the game authorities to secure sufficient money from the next Legislature to create another game preserve. These game preserves have been of much aid in propagation of game of all kinds, especially deer.

RECORD STANDS AFTER 25 YEARS

In the column—"25 years ago," in the York Daily, is the following item: "John A. Althoff, of McSherrystown, considered one of the most expert cigar makers, performed the feat of rolling 100 cigars from the moulds in 28 minutes. It was said he could make 100 cigars an hour with ease and frequently made 1,000 in ten hours."

Mr. Althoff is still at "the bench," being employed in the factory of F. Smith, Sons & Co., in McSherrystown, at this time.

Upon inquiry, we have learned that his feat of a quarter century ago, is still a record, and that there are few cigar makers today who can equal it.

A WESTERN PLAY

"Daniel Boone on the Trail" which comes to the Walter Theatre on Tuesday November 22 is a play conceded by both press and public as standing pre-eminent amongst all melodrama productions of the season's offerings.

Mr. Harris has spared neither pains nor money to make this production complete in every detail, the cast having been carefully chosen and scenery painted from photographic views taken in and around the mountains of Kentucky where the famous pioneer Daniel Boone spent his early days. A most realistic and thrilling scene is the great snow storm and Boone's fight for life with the ferocious Siberian wolves carried and used in this great production. Another feature is the introduction of Bounding Elk, a full blooded Sioux Indian, and a direct descendant of the famous old Indian warrior, Sitting Bull. He is a graduate of Yale and the only real Indian actor today playing a responsible part with any dramatic production. The costuming is historically correct and all in all the production of "Daniel Boone on the Trail" is without doubt the best of all the season's melodramatic offerings.

FARMER'S LOST WILL FOUND

Turns Up at Public Sale of His Property.

BIG ESTATE FOR NIECE

Other Relatives and Old Employees Remembered—Legal Contest Likely to Follow.

Burlington, N. J., Nov. 21.—Discovery of the long lost will of the late Schuyler Rainear, the rich and eccentric old farmer of Florence township, gave a romantic turn to the fight of the heirs of the big estate.

The discovery of the will at the height of the public sale of Rainear's property, ordered by an administrator, created the greatest excitement among the crowds of farmers and townspeople, gathered for the venue. The sale was at its height when Harry Bishop, inspecting Rainear's old market wagon, which he had just purchased for $4, found an old book stuffed between the ribs and canvas of the wagon cover.

"Rainear's customer book," said Mr. Bishop to his companion, and idly turned the closely scribbled leaves. A paper fell from between the leaves and fluttered to the ground. Bishop picked it up, read a few lines, and with a cry of "The will!" "The will!" dashed for the house, where the lawyers in charge of the estate were overseeing the sale.

Bishop turned over the paper to Attorney Robert S. Gaskill, who, with Senator G. W. Lewis, was named administrator of the estate by the court. Oddly enough, the old will was found to have named Gaskill as one of the executors. The other is Lambert Rainear, Jr., a brother, now dead.

Read Will to Crowd.

Gaskill at once read the will aloud to the crowd, to whom it furnished a sensation, fitting well with the manner in which Rainear has kept in the public eye since two years ago this month the little iron safe in which he kept as high as $20,000 in gold was robbed by a daylight burglar, who escaped, but was captured in Chicago after a neighbor had been arrested and falsely accused of the crime.

The will was dated April 22, 1909, and, as far as could be learned, it is signed by out one witness, Lambert Rainear, whose death occurred four months after the date of the document.

Lawyers admit the finding of the will opens the way for a big legal fight, as it has little in common with the division as now arranged among the direct and indirect heirs. To several nieces it leaves $3000 each. To Jane Nixon, Rainear's aged housekeeper, and to Samuel Richardson, his ninety-two-year-old farm helper, is given $1000 each. The most pathetic feature of the will's discovery was its announcement to these old people, who have virtually spent their lives on the Rainear farm, but were to be moved out almost penniless this week, by order of the heirs. The residuary legatee is a Mrs. Foulkes, a niece, whose home is in Florence, and her share, if the will is carried out, it is said will be over $125,000.

WENT BLIND IN HIS SLEEP

Bookkeeper Wakens to Find Himself Sightless.

New York, Nov. 21.—Without previous illness or symptoms of any kind to warn him, August Soops, forty-five years old, awakened from a perfectly normal sleep to find himself stone blind.

Although a bookkeeper for many years, he had never suffered eye strain or felt the need of glasses. When he retired his eyesight was as clear as ever and he was conscious of no trouble. At whatever time his affliction came upon him, there was no pain to wake him up. When he awoke in the morning he was unable to see and thought it was still night. Soon he tried to see the time and struck a match. Suddenly he realized that he was blind. In his agony at the discovery he screamed and swooned. There is no hope for recovery.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 21.—Although the condition of Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks, wife of the former vice president, has changed somewhat for the better, her friends and relatives are still worried about her condition, and it is feared that complications may set in.

Mrs. Fairbanks caught a bad cold last summer, and it soon developed into grip, which has remained ever since.

WIDOW MAY FOLLOW

TOlstoi IN DEATH

Breaks Down as Aged Author Passes Away.

Astypova, Russia, Nov. 21.—With her husband lying dead in the bare room of a railroad flag station, the condition of Countess Tolstol rapidly grew worse, and physicians who have been attending her and the aged count became seriously alarmed for her life.

After a desperate entreaty of the physicians for the privilege of seeing her husband alive once more, the countess was allowed to be present at the death of the author and social reformer, which occurred on Saturday. She collapsed immediately after Tolstol's last spark of life flickered out.

It is understood that the body will be taken back to the village of Yasnaya Polyana, where he was born and where he spent his youth. It is believed that his known wishes in regard to his funeral will be obeyed.

Whatever the form, however, which consigns the great seeker for truth to his last resting place, the ceremonies will undoubtedly be witnessed by a gathering of the greatest men of Russia. Though he died without making his peace with the church, from which he had been excommunicated, the great Russian writer is sure to be honored in death, even as in life, by superior intellects.

Count Tolstol died without regaining sufficient consciousness to enable him to say farewell or cast a loving look upon his wife and children.

His last words were: "There are millions of people and many sufferers in the world. Why always anxious about me?"

CRIPPEN BOWS TO DEATH

In Signed Statement He Says Truth Will Be Revealed.

London, Nov. 21.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, whose execution is fixed for Nov. 23, in a three column signed statement in a Sunday paper, says that he is not afraid to die and bows to the inevitable.

He appeals to the world to remember that he was condemned on inconclusive evidence and asserts that the real truth will be revealed. He knew nothing, he says, of the remains discovered in the Hilldrop Crescent house until Solicitor Newton told him the day after his arrival at Bow street. He was confident that if he could have commanded unlimited funds like the crown and have brought more medical witnesses the result would have been different.

The failure of his appeal, which he was convinced would reverse the judgment of the court, crushed and overwhelmed him and broke his heart, because he had dreamed the building up of a home with the woman, without whom life was worthless.

"BARTENDER" STRUCK DOWN

Realism In "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" Ends Disastrously.

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 21.—Realism in an amateur production of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" ended disastrously for the "bartender" here and caused the performance to be abandoned.

J. B. Hagadon, who played the part of Simon Slade, the bartender, was cut about the head when a quart bottle thrown by his erstwhile drunken son, Frank Slade, played by Arthur Cook, slipped from the latter's hand and struck Hagadon with much force.

Hagadon fell unconscious on the stage and a physician put several stitches in his scalp.

SHOWS HOW GIRL

LISTS ON $20,000

Mother Submits List of Her Needs in Court.

New York, Nov. 21.—A girl of sixteen can get along on $20,000 a year and live comfortably, according to the estimate of Mrs. Emily Ladenburg, who has applied to County Judge Edgar Jackson, at Mineola, L. I., for that amount for her daughter, Eugenia.

Miss Ladenburg is heir to a fortune, the disposition of which is at present in the hands of the court. Her mother, who is a member of the Meadowbrook colony, filed a petition asking for the allowance mentioned. In the petition Mrs. Ladenburg says that her own income is only $8000 a year, and that it takes all that for the bare necessities of life. Her schedule of what her daughter needs for the next year is:

Maid, $20 a month.
Governess, $60 a month.
Clothing, $67 a month, with $1000 more for traveling and evening clothes.
Maintenance of an automobile, $2000 a year.

Maintaining two horses, $34 a month, with extra horses, amount not specified.
Groom, $600 a year, with extra grooms, amount not specified.

Tickets to Europe, Miss Ladenburg and maid, $500.

Traveling expenses, $240.

Theaters and other amusements, $250.

Hotel expenses abroad, ten months, $5500.

Maintenance of country place at Westbury, $5000.

Rent of apartment on return from Europe, $720.

Tuition and dancing lessons, $1250.

Treatment of teeth and jaw trouble, $1000.

Music and incidentals, amount not specified.

Decision was reserved.

JUSTICE MOODY RETIRES

Ill health has prevented Justice Moody from performing his duties as a member of the court. The resignation was made under the terms of a special act of congress, passed for the purpose of allowing Justice Moody to retire on full pay.

President Taft has not announced the name of Moody's successor.

Shoots His Bride and Kills Himself.

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 21.—After shooting and probably fatally wounding his bride of two weeks, formerly Miss Vivian Leroy, of Philadelphia, Joseph Morphy, aged twenty-five years, a shipper for the Maine Manufacturing company, then put a bullet into himself, dying almost instantly. Mrs. Morphy is now in a critical condition in the Haverhill hospital. Little is known here of Morphy or his wife.

Bryan Preaches Two Sermons.

Bryan preached two sermons at two of the Presbyterian churches of Dallas Sunday and later addressed more than 2000 persons in the Dallas Opera house under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. A Dollar Corset that Looks Twice Its Price

In this day of high prices $1.00 is considered a very small price for a corset. Be that as it may, $1.00 is a particularly small price for this corset.

There is as much style in the J. C. C. Grace as in many a corset at $2.00 or more. It fits well, it yields the greatest degree of comfort, and it wears as long as any one could ask.

A good grade of coutil is employed in the development of this model; the boning can be relied upon and the two pairs of supporters are extra strong. The hips are long and the bust medium.

There is a fan-like arrangement of stitching, at the lower center front which helps to keep the straight, flat line now all desirable.

At $1.50, $2.00, $2.50 and upwards we show other J. C. C. models that are equally fine values.

The Messenger Boy

By MARTHA V. MONROE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Dick," said Mr. Scriver, cashier of the bank in which I was office boy, "I've got to intrust you with an important job. There's no one else at hand to do it. You're only sixteen years old and not very big and strong at that; but, as I said, I haven't any one else just at present. I want you to take $2,000 to Ingham."

The money was given me in bills and placed in my breast pocket. I got into the bank's buggy, and just before I drove off a revolver was handed me.

As I crossed a street I saw a man sitting in a buggy just far enough away to prevent my seeing who he was. I should not have thought anything about him had it not been that I soon heard the rattle of wheels behind me. Looking back, I saw him, recognizing him for the man I had first seen by an enormous felt hat he wore and a light brown overcoat.

Still, I thought nothing about being followed, though I noticed that he was moving faster than I. I wouldn't show any trepidation by whipping up my horse even if I had suspected him. So I jogged along at an even pace till I had traversed half the distance, when, reaching a long stretch of road through a wood, I heard the horse in the rear coming at a rapid pace.

If I had positively known that some one was coming to rob me I might have turned and opened fire. I dreaded being falsely alarmed, or, rather, I considered it best not to appear to distrust my follower. He might not be intending to attack me. He might know me to be a bank messenger, but not be sure I had money with me. All these points passed rapidly through my mind, and I still jogged on at the same gait.

When the man overhauled me I recognized him as one I had seen about town, a hard featured fellow, but I didn't know anything good or bad about him. But I knew before he spoke what he wanted, for he held a cocked revolver in his right hand. Mine was handy in my right coat pocket, but before I could get it out he could riddle me.

"You're a bank messenger," he said. "You've got money with you, and I want it."

"How do you know that?" "I was at a telephone using a party wire and heard the bank at Ingham say they had to have $2,000 before 3 o'clock."

"I've seen you in Beverly often. You're taking a great risk in robbing me."

"Dead men tell no tales." A diabolical expression passed over his face. "I can tell you a better way than that. Murder will out, you know. Now, suppose you take me in with you."

"What do you mean?" "Why, you might give me a part of the funds, and I can go back and report that I've been robbed of the whole."

"Oh, I see you're on the make yourself!"

"I don't like living on $6 a week very well, seeing money about me like the leaves under those trees and not have a show for any of it."

"All right. Hand out what you've got and I'll give you a quarter of it."

"Not so fast. I've got to have proof that I've been robbed. I shall tell a fine story of how I defended myself, and to show that I put up a good fight I must have some bullet holes in my clothes."

I held up my hat and asked him to put a hole in it with his revolver. He did so. I took off my coat, and he put three more holes in it for me. Then I told him that it wouldn't do for me to go back without a wound and asked him to graze the fleshy part of my leg. When he attempted to do so I gave a spasmodic move, and he missed. I begged him to make one more trial. He made it, and I moved again.

"Hands up!" I cried, whipping my revolver from my coat pocket. I shall never forget the expression on his face when he realized that he had emptied the six chambers of his revolver and was at my mercy. I could see by the workings of his mind through his eye that he was debating whether he would attempt to overpower me, a mere boy, despite my advantage. I made up my mind for him by firing point blank in his face. I knew I risked killing him, but I didn't mind that. He dodged, and my bullet missed him. But my shot unnerved him.

"Drive on," I said. He realized that it was an alternative between prison and death and chose the former. I supposed he had a second revolver with him and watched him very closely. But he had not. I drove him into Ingham and turned him over to the police, then took the money to the bank.

I said nothing about my adventure except at the police office, leaving Mr. Scriver to read an account of it in a newspaper. He came to a desk where I was mailing circulars with the paper in his hands. The expression on his face was a sight to behold.

"What the dickens is this, anyway?" he asked, staring at me.

"It's all true," I replied.

He was silent for a moment, then went away, returning with a check for $500 in his hand.

"You take Billings' place," he said, "at his salary."

LIFE SAVED BY OPAL

Bullet Strikes Man's Scarf Pin and Lodges in Setting.

New York, Nov. 21.—An opal, considered by many as an ill omen, saved the life of Samuel Alkon. When he was fired upon from a distance of four feet the bullet struck and smashed the stone, which was in a tie pin, then embedded itself in the frame of the pin.

A youth, who said he was Louis Brody, nineteen years old, was charged with the shooting.

Coal Operator For U. S. Senate.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Clarence Watson, one of the wealthiest coal operators in West Virginia, has the best chance of being elected to the United States senate to succeed Nathan Bay Scott, according to Representative Gaines, of West Virginia. Mr. Gaines said it was generally understood in his state that the Democratic campaign managers had agreed before the election to support Mr. Watson if the legislature went Democratic. Mr. Watson contributed $50,000 to the Democratic campaign fund.

Know the Stars in the Dragon?

Winding in and out between the stars of the Great and Little Dipper is the constellation of the Dragon. The tip of the tail lies between the pole star in the Little Dipper and the pointers in the Great Dipper, but much nearer the latter and only a few degrees below the pointers. The rest of the constellation, outlined with faint stars, curves downward and around the Little Dipper, when with a final coil it terminates with the two bright stars Gamma and Beta, which mark the head of the Dragon, or, in fact, its eyes. Aratus in describing the constellations speaks of the Dragon as "with eyes oblique retorted, that askant cast gleaming fire."

Its leading star, Alpha, near the tail of the Dragon and halfway between Mizar (the middle star in the handle of the Great Dipper) and the lowest star in the bowl of the Little Dipper, is known by the name of Thuban. Four thousand years ago it was the pole star.—Mary Proctor in Chicago Tribune.

Does Your Cat Cough?

Poor pussy! As if the immortal charges against her of keeping us awake at night and of eating canary birds whenever she gets the chance were not enough, the doctors have just discovered that for years she has been responsible for the spread of diphtheria. Dr. G. J. Auburn of Manchester, England, having traced an epidemic of this disease in a suburb of that city to a pet cat belonging to one of his patients, has found, after much clever investigation, that all cats are peculiarly susceptible to diphtheria. Infections of the throat. He has the more recently been warning all families who own cats to watch them carefully and if they develop coughs to forbid their being hugged and petted. Dr. Auburn further recommends that if the cough persists and the cat begins to grow thin to have the animal destroyed at once. The only really safe way, he says, is to let the first wheeze be pussy's death warrant.—New York World.

The Wise King.

Once upon a time there lived a king who was said to be so wise that he could answer every question that was put to him, so people came from far and near to ask his advice when they were in perplexity, trouble or difficulty.

One day there came an old woman, tired and travel stained, and, bowing low before his majesty, she said:

"May it please your majesty to answer me a question?"

"Speak on," said the king. "Can you tell me why," said the old woman, "having two eyes and two ears, I have only one mouth?" "Yes," said the king. "You have two eyes that you may see everything well. You have two ears that you may hear everything well. But you have only one mouth so that you may not talk too much."

Little Nut People.

Queer little dolls may be made from various nuts. To make a "lady doll" take a piece of white cloth and draw tightly over one end of a pecan nut, sewing the cloth tightly on the under side to prevent the nut from slipping out. Wrap the part of the cloth extending under the nut in a little roll. Sew this together, and for the arms make smaller rolls of cloth in the same way. Then sew the arms to the body. Gather the body a little above the middle. Sew on a white petticoat and make a simple dress. Fold a white neckerchief over the shoulders and paint a face on the nut. A bonnet may be added if desired. Using a similar body, other figures may be made with many different styles of dress.—Youth's Companion.

A Queer Australian Bird.

In Australia lives a member of the crow family called the white winged chough, which builds a mud nest in trees. Its arched and pointed beak is longer than its head, and its tail is rounded. Although the choughs which build mud nests live only in Australia, yet other birds of the same name are found on the British seacoasts, living among high cliffs. The bird has many traits of its cousin, the crow. It is easily tamed, extremely curious and plunders as crows do. Its long hawklike claws enable it to cling easily to tree or rock, but it seems unwilling ever to set foot on the turf. It lives in societies like rooks and feeds on insects, berries and grain.

GETTYSBURG STEAM LAUNDRY Gettysburg, Pa.

The business man was sitting in his office thinking of standing for home when a suspicious looking person came in with a leather bag in his hand.

"If you don't give me $25," said the visitor, coming at once to the point. "I will drop this on the floor."

The business man was cool. "What is in it?" he asked.

"Dynamite," was the brief reply. "What will it do if you drop it?"

"Blow you up!"

"Drop it!" was the instant command. "My wife told me when I left home this morning to be sure to seed up a bag of flour, and I forgot it. I guess it will take just about as much dynamite as you have there to prepare me for the blowing up I'll get when she sees me."

"I'm a married man myself," said the dynamiter and quietly slipped out.—Illustrated Bits.
